

Message from the Managing Director

It is quite timely to share our newsletter off the back of the ABS Report stating that Renewable Energy jobs in Australia have declined 27% since its peak in 2012 (19,120 people). Who can argue these numbers after the Abbott government had its way with the industry. That said, the sentiment in the industry has been quite positive from January 1st, and we have seen a refreshing continuation of opportunities in the industry in Australia, and a healthy increase of international investors participating in the local market (note State Power Investment Corp among others). We are nearing the end of a lengthy Executive Search process with a valued client John Laing who is quite openly taking an active role in the market having taken an equity state in the Hornsdale Windfarm project. Fortunately (for Developers), they are not alone, and new and emerging technologies are also being seriously looked at as investment opportunities again.
